

Hochschule Geisenheim University (GU) is Germany's first "New Type University" evaluated by the Scientific Council of the Federal Government (Wissenschaftsrat). GU offers science-based, application oriented undergraduate programmes (Bachelor) with rigorous professional education standards. Master programmes are based on focussed, in-depth scientific knowledge with an international orientation. GU has the right to award doctorates. As part of its strategic alignment GU invites applications for a

Full Time Scientist / Lecturer (E13)
Wine Markets and Consumer & Agricultural Policy
Key number 31/2015

to be filled as soon as possible.

Eligible candidates hold a doctorate in Wine Economics, Agricultural Economics, or in related subjects, have already shown success both in research and teaching, and have demonstrated pedagogical and personal aptitude. The position has a teaching load of 8 hours a week per semester (total) in the undergraduate study programme "International Wine Business". Teaching duties will be mainly concentrated on the subject areas of (basic) economics, international wine markets, consumer and agricultural (wine) policy as well as more in-depth seminars on wine producer and consumer countries and markets.

Candidates should be fluent in English. A good command of an additional language would be of advantage. Further information regarding the university, the curriculum and the new study programme as well on the Rheingau-Region can be found on our website www.geisenheim-university.de/iwb.

The position has an initial appointment period of three years and might become permanent subject to a positive evaluation and the availability of financial resources. GU strives to increase the diversity of its faculty. As an equal opportunity and affirmative action employer, GU explicitly encourages nominations and applications from women as well as others who would bring additional diversity dimensions to the university's research and teaching strategies. Preference will be given to disabled candidates with essentially the same qualifications (§ 2 Para. 2 and 3 SGB IX).

Applications accompanied by supporting documentation in English or German (CV, certificates, list of publications, list of courses taught (when applicable), short presentation of research and teaching) should be submitted by 12.08.2015 referring to our key number 31/2015 to: Hochschule Geisenheim University, Abteilung Personal/PE, Von-Lade-Str. 1, 65366 Geisenheim/Germany.
